

September 1, 2006

I never realized the importance of good bookkeeping in making a company. I knew there was always something wrong in trying to find information and putting it to use. I found ourselves in a complicated mess and did not know which way to turn, until your company stepped in and started training, correcting errors, creating new analysis, and explaining the importance of good records, The end results is already making positive moves.

has been a very patience man. He has had to start at the being and train my secretaries and me to the ultimate goal, which is, 'Do it write the first time and everything will follow in order'! , I know there has been trying times and frustration on our part, but you pulled us together and created a new company that will prosper in the future. A listening ear on your part was greatly appreciated; words cannot really express my happiness and strength in many aspects of our business. The new ideas and help with talking to creditors and banks that you presented to the company, " ", will always be the ultimate goal for survival into today's world. You have helped us to structure a sound foundation for our company and personal real estate.

I want to thank IPA for sending to us. His knowledge and quick response in helping us achieve our goal was the best thing that could have every happened to our company. I know that , , , and I will always respect 's instructions in transforming our company (through great bookkeeping) into a valuable and resourceful culture.

Thanks again for all your hard work, support, advice, and listening ear. I will never forget you and I hope that we can stay in contact so that I can give you a positive update of our company.

Thanks again

Erni